

A small boy applied to a merchant for a situation. The great man asked what position he wanted. "A chance to grow up in the business," he replied.

"Well, what is your motto, my son?" the merchant asked.

"What do you mean?"

"Why, on the floor there, 'Push'."

POLITICAL VIEWS OF MR. COCKRAN

New York Congressman Addresses House on Japanese Question.

DANGER IN THE SITUATION

AMERICANS IN THE ORIENT ARE LIKELY TO SUFFER.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The most radical views of the Japanese question heard in the house for some time were uttered by Mr. Cockran, New York, today. Never, he said, had two races lived together peacefully in actual contact except under one condition, and that, he asserted, was when one has consented to admit superiority in the other.

Discussing the conditions in the west, Mr. Cockran said:

"You have on the Pacific coast today two races, one of which is acknowledged as inferior and the other 'not acknowledged' equally. That the alien race is growing in numbers, some believe."

A Growing Danger.

Everybody, he said, could conceive that its growth meant danger. The president's recommendations for peaceful methods by which the excess of Japanese may be prevented, "Sirs," he exclaimed, "may succeed or they may not, but there is the one ominous fact—he cannot induce the other government to sign a treaty of exclusion, and if this quiet method of preventing the influx of this race to our shores proves ineffective, there is nothing left but an exclusion act."

Everyone, he declared, knew that the passage of an exclusion act would be accepted as an hostile act by that country.

"Sirs," Mr. Cockran said, "we have seen what follows when that government considers an act hostile. It justifies the breaking off of negotiations, but I do not believe that even under those circumstances the Japanese government would make war upon us."

What Might Happen.

He speculated, however, on what might happen should the anti-Japanese feeling, which he said was unconquerable, take the form that it took against the Italians in New Orleans.

"Do you think," he inquired, "the Japanese in Tokyo would allow the Japanese in Japan?" he added, "you never have visited that country."

He said that the Japanese had but one feeling, and that was love of country. "Outrage that love," he exclaimed, "and reprisals will follow."

DONE PRESSED ON BRAIN

Obstruction Having Been Removed Los Angeles Criminal's Character Changes.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—That the moral character of John C. Quinlan, accused habitual criminal, who underwent an operation at the county hospital three days ago, has been completely changed by the removal of a splintered bone which pressed on the brain, is the opinion of several prominent surgeons and brain specialists who have examined the man. Quinlan, who was struck on the head in a fight twelve months ago, and since that time has been arrested three times on different charges, believes that the operation has improved his physical and mental condition.

"I can sleep at night now," Quinlan yesterday said, "and do not have that ache in my head."

"I have no recollection of doing anything criminal or wrong. I felt as if I had awakened from a trance."

For the first time since his arrest on a charge of violating his parole three weeks ago, Quinlan yesterday appeared repentant. When his mother and brother called at the county hospital, the prisoner broke down and sobbed. Physicians at the hospital say that the change in the prisoner is noticeable.

CHILD LABOR CONVENTION

Assault Upon the Law of the District of Columbia—United States Senate Scored.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—An assault on the child labor law of the District of Columbia and an address in which Andrew S. Draper of New York pleaded that children be included in the campaign for the conservation of national resources, were features of today's session of the National Child Labor convention. Isaac N. Seligman of New York presided.

"The United States senate," said Owen R. Lovejoy, "has today a monopoly of child labor. In the senate there are boys working for $75 a month who are only 12 years old. The bill went through the lower house in a form with which little if any fault could be found, but it took four years to get it through the senate. When the body got through with it, there had been inserted an amendment providing that orphans and children of widows could go to work at the age of 12. Another one provided that house and senate pages could be employed at that age."

FLOOD SITUATION WORSE

Water Rising in the Rivers of Sacramento and Solano Counties in California.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 22.—The news from the island districts of Sacramento and Solano counties tonight is the most discouraging since the first flood waves swept down the valley. Various reports show that the situation is worse than any time this season. The water has risen slowly all day and is near the tops of the levees of the lower portion of Sherman Island, Ryer Island in Solano and Brannan Island, which joins Twitchell Island (now flooded) on the north. From Courtland, Walnut Grove and Isleton, further up the river, the reports are cheerful and hope is strong that Andrus, Tyler, Randle and Grand islands in Sacramento county, and Merritt in Yolo, will weather the storm. A new flood wave is coming down the Sacramento and will crest here about noon tomorrow.

Frederick Wood Delivers Address in New York—Makes Strong Statements.

New York, Jan. 22.—"Woman suffrage has done more harm than good in the four states in which it has been tried, Idaho, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming," declared Frederick Wood, in an address before the National League for the Civic Education of Women here tonight. Mr. Wood read a letter from General W. J. Palmer of Colorado, in which the latter declared that woman suffrage has been a failure in that state.

"The establishment of a juvenile court in Colorado is often pointed out as one of the benefits of giving women the ballot," said Mr. Wood, "but in the twenty-one states which have juvenile courts, nineteen are states in which women do not vote, and the first state in which such courts were started was Massachusetts, where the women declined to take the ballot when it was offered to them."

"Based upon my personal observation of the workings of equal suffrage in the four states where it exists, its results indicate to influence the female vote rather than any ability on the part of women to purify politics."

MEMORIAL TO LIBERATOR

Senate Appropriates $50,000 for Survey of "Lincoln Way" Between Washington and Gettysburg.

Washington, Jan. 22.—By a vote of 46 to 24 the senate today adopted Senator Knox's amendment to the Lincoln centennial resolution appropriating $50,000 for a survey of the "Lincoln way" between Washington and Gettysburg, and declaring that the route should be marked by a suitable memorial to Abraham Lincoln.

An amendment by Mr. Newlands to create a "council of arts" to consider plans for the highway was voted down.

Mr. Heyburn expressed fear that the matter might be placed in the president's hands to the exclusion of congress, but Mr. Knox said his amendment was so drawn as to leave the matter with congress.

Mr. Heyburn referred to the president's creation of an art commission, and pointed to the way the executive action had been received by the public. Mr. Newlands contended that the president had only intended to recommend legislation and did not undertake to place the commission on a legal basis.

Mr. Burkhardt charged that a real estate speculation was involved in the proposition for a highway from Washington to Gettysburg. He preferred a public building in Washington.

The resolution as adopted makes Feb. 12 a holiday.

Securing weapons, they stood guard over the store until Policemen Barnett and Russell arrived and took the man away. The police are looking for a third man they believe was connected with the affair.

GOVERNOR HASKELL OF OKLAHOMA

Issues Statement Regarding Town Lot Controversy.

Muskogee, Okla., Jan. 22.—Governor Charles N. Haskell issued a statement today explaining his connection with the Indian Territory town-lot controversy, which is to be made the subject of a federal grand jury investigation next week, and which is expected to result in many indictments being found.

The governor attributes the controversy to the reports made by the agents of William R. Hearst, the New York editor, who, he says, has been trying to have him indicted. The governor quotes an affidavit made by U. S. Russell, editor of the Shawnee Herald at Shawnee, Okla., to the effect that Attorney M. I. Mott, who brought the 20,000 civil suits to test the titles to Indian lands, has said:

"I cannot find evidence to connect Haskell with any criminal conduct in relation to the Muskogee lot matters, but may be able to force an indictment which will answer our purpose."

This statement attributed to Mr. Mott is alleged by the governor in his statement to have been made by Scott MacReynolds. Mr. MacReynolds was arrested at Guthrie recently on charges of Governor Haskell that MacReynolds, who has been collecting testimony for Mr. Hearst's attorneys to be used in the libel suit of Haskell versus Hearst, had sought to defame Governor Haskell.

O. E. Pagan, a representative of the Department of Justice at Washington, arrived here today and went immediately into conference with S. R. Rush and District Attorney W. J. Gregor, who are working up the land fraud cases for the government. Secret Service Officer W. J. Burns is expected here tomorrow, and Attorney General Bonaparte is expected on Sunday next.

MANY KILLED AND INJURED IN DISASTER

Second Section of Train Crashes Into First on Pennsylvania Road.

HURRY CALLS ISSUED FOR AID AND DOCTORS

REPORTERS BARRED FROM RELIEF TRAINS AND LITTLE IS KNOWN ABOUT HORROR.

Johnstown, Pa., Jan. 22.—Running at a speed of nearly fifty miles an hour, the second section of the St. Louis express on the Pennsylvania railroad, westbound, which left Philadelphia at 4:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon, crashed into the first section, which had met with an accident at a point between South Fork and Sumner Hill, known as "running ground," with terrific force early this morning, killing and injuring many persons.

The second section was a double-header, with two large engines, and is said to have plowed its way through the first section. Immediately after the wreck hurry calls were issued for all available physicians at both this place and at Altoona, and in less than an hour nearly fifty physicians were on their way to the scene of the accident.

Between Stations.

The wreck occurred between telegraph stations and it is a hard matter to gain definite information. When the special train left this city officers were stationed at the depot to prevent newspaper men from accompanying the physicians.

The latest information at this hour is to the effect that five bodies have been taken from the demolished cars and that many injured have also been rescued from the debris.

Pennsylvania railroad officials say only three persons were killed in the Mineral Point wreck near Johnstown. It is said they are a Pullman conductor, a Pullman porter and a man supposed to be a tramp.

"No list of the injured will be obtainable until the rescue train reaches Altoona, which will be about 5:30 o'clock."
